H2CU Students' Corner: Roberto Reale

Roberto Reale (AKA "the Pioneer") got his MS in Civil Engineering at Columbia University in 2006 and right afterward started working at MRCE where was involved in many interesting and challenging projects such as the reconstruction of the World Trade Center. In 2009 Roberto was hired by the United Nations and managed several projects in South America (Perù, Argentina). Roberto's aim has always been to get the most he could from abroad and make his country better, so in 2010 went back to Italy and (after some years of struggle) is now the focal point for Environment at Bain & Company. Thanks to Roberto Reale
