GENERAL AGREEMENT of COLLABORATION between H2CU - Honors Center of Italian Universities and PACE University (Pace) – Lubin School of Business

Pace University and H2CU have signed an Agreement of Collaboration for facilitating the enrollment of Italian students into the Master of Science in Investment Management and Financial Management. This agreement will allow Italian students to have a tuition fees discount and a transfer credits from the Italian curriculum. A specific addendum was signed between Pace - H2CU and University of Brescia in which the equivalences of the courses are preliminarily evaluated. In the near future the agreement will be extended to other Universities part of the H2CU network.

Friday May 1 Prof. Salvatore Grimaldi has met with the H2CU students, researchers and faculty in NYC.

The participants have presented their research activities, and they have shared their experiences in New York. The meeting was opened by Prof. Beatrice Vallone Sapienza University of Rome, that has illustrated her research in collaboration with Columbia University.

H2CU Student's Corner: a Doctor in NY by Elio Gorga

Universita' degli Studi di Brescia – Icahn School at Mount Sinai

Thanks to the collaboration between Universita' degli Studi di Brescia and The Icahn School at Mount Sinai, I'm in New York to collaborate with the team of Prof. Valentin Fuster in the developing of a new research project in the fields of cardiovascular disease prevention. The FAMILIA project will try to teach at children from 3 to 5 years how to live a healthy life, involving also their parents and teachers. This is an attempt to reduce the dramatic incidence of cardiovascular disease.
